

Static Safe Environments Ltd - Modern Slavery Policy

Modern Slavery Statement

Static Safe Environments Ltd (SSE) is committed to ensuring modern slavery or human trafficking does not exist in its organisation or supply chains.

SSE recognises its responsibilities under The Modern Slavery Act and does not support or conduct business knowingly involving any act of slavery or human trafficking as defined in The Modern Slavery Act 2015.

Preventing Modern Slavery in our business

SSE carry out appropriate checks on all employees, recruitment agencies and suppliers, so that we know who is working for us or on our behalf. Every employee has a written employment contract and are paid in line with UK employment and tax legislation. We comply with our legal obligations to ensure the health and safety of our employees and workers, including working hours, rest breaks and holidays.

Preventing Modern Slavery in our Supply Chains

SSE only conducts business with reputable manufacturers and suppliers, many long-standing partners from the UK and Europe. SSE prides itself on providing quality products from manufacturers and suppliers with established quality and management systems, with traceable supply chains.

Reporting a Concern

Any concerns relating to modern slavery or other matters in SSE's supply chains should be made to the Managing Director of SSE immediately. Any concern reported will be investigated and dealt with confidentially.
